

To Whom It May Concern;

I would like the FCC to stop allowing the massive, uninhibited consolidation of our media markets by large corporations. With fewer and fewer owners, the media stops serving as a place where there is a free exchange of information. As the media becomes more and more owned by corporations with wide interests and holdings (which appear to cross the boarder into "monopolization" territory), the chance that this country, and our democratic system, will have a fair and truthful press that will freely report and criticize those in power (in business as well as in government) on the major concerns of our society.
